A Unique Experience

It is easy to say that a person is “ahead of his time”, but rarely has anyone been so far ahead. He could see the future – his insights suggested new possibilities, his inventions really did emerge from the “future back”.

How did he do this? The answers lie not in science or technology, but in the way in which he saw the world around him, and how that made him “rethink”.

So how can we apply these ideas to business today, and specifically to the challenge of more effective innovation, innovation from the “future back”?

- 1. Relentless curiosity ... hunger to learn, to question, to search for better answers, and to articulate his ideas in pictures, and propose new possibilities.
- 2. Seeing more ... he observed things differently, using all his senses to appreciate richer detail, to align perspective and perception, and thereby to understand his subject better.
- 3. Thinking bigger ... appreciating art and science, logic and imagination, he was able to think more broadly, embracing rigorous analysis whilst also trusting his intuition.
- 4. Making connections ... to connect the unconnected, to embrace the fusion and intersection between the natural and physical world, the tiniest seeds to the stars above.
- 5. Embracing paradox ... thriving on ambiguity and uncertainty, creating mystery and depth, be it the contrast in his sketches, or asking questions without obvious answers.
- 6. Courageous action ... always seeking to prove his hypotheses, to experiment and test, to make his ideas tangible, and to do what nobody has done before.

7. Enlightened mind ... constantly renewing mental and physical fitness, exploring new worlds to spark new ideas, not being a slave to work but living a full life.

What participants from the UK & HU said about last year's programme:

„I wish I'd done this years ago. I'm now really clear about who and what I am, what I want and how I want to be as a leader”.

„Amazed at how a few hours can be so transformational”.

“Vision Day gave me the realization that I can create the perfect life. In my business life, I am able to see the big picture so the daily ups and downs stay secondary to keeping my eye on the ball in achieving my goals.”

„If you have unanswered questions in your personal and business life and want to discover answers by looking inside yourself instead of asking for advice. Vision Day-V.I.P Day will bring it on. Self-discovery with guidance is much more powerful and lasting than just coaching!”

“The day was full of hopeful, positive energy.”
